WHO'S GOT THE COAL?

TOP
27/9/14

India is the world's fourth largest producer of coal behind China, the US and Indonesia. China alone produces almost as much coal as the rest of the top 10 put together. Yet, both of these Asian giant nations are net importers of coal because they are among the largest consumers too, China the biggest and India the third biggest. Most other big producers are net exporters. At the other end of the spectrum, Japan and South Korea are among the biggest consumers of coal but are totally dependent on imports to meet their needs. The data here is in thermal units rather than tonnes since the same weight of coal can have varying energy value depending on its quality
